"I pray that they will be one, Father, just as you are in me and I am in you" (John 17: 21).

In the liturgical (worship) calendar of the church, October is a month of contradiction – unity and division. We begin with World Communion Sunday on October 6. This special Sunday was started by the Presbyterian Church (USA) in 1936 as a way to begin to heal a war torn world. World Communion Sunday is an opportunity for Christians around the world to break bread with one another and look forward to the day when Christ will come again and divisions will be no more.

But we end October with Reformation Sunday on October 27 - a day that marks the great divide between the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestant Reformation. This is the day we remember when a priest, Martin Luther, nailed his 95 Theses onto the doors of the church in Wittenberg, Germany more than 500 years ago, lending fuel to a flame that was just beginning to catch.

Our lives are full of contradictions. On Peaks Island, we lived across the street from an elementary school. During afternoon recess, I loved hearing the squeals of joy and laughter coming from the playground, but I did not appreciate them at 7:30am when they woke me from a deep slumber. And yet, without those sounds, it would have meant the island no longer had enough children for a school; it would have meant our community was dwindling and wasn't able to sustain young families; it would have meant we had an unhealthy community without much diversity.

We often define diversity by our outward appearance: ethnicity, socio-economic status, age, gender identity, sexual orientation, etc. But diversity can also be defined by our many gifts (1 Corinthians 12): wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, teaching, and communicating across many languages, to name a few. All of these gifts do not exist within one person. But each person DOES have at least one gift to share. Our diversity on all levels is essential in order for the community to be healthy and whole.

It takes intentionality and real effort to build relationship with people we don't know, don't trust, and don't agree with. Yet, that is Christ's prayer for us – that we learn to become one, united in love. It's not about agreeing on everything, it's about finding common ground from which we can stand together and find creative ways to bring about justice and peace, creative ways to protect the earth and share her resources, creative ways to heal and to uplift each other. It's about being brave enough to break bread together and allow ourselves to be changed by the experience.

I look forward to breaking bread with you.

Grace and peace,
Pastor Angela

Dear Wayne Messenger Recipient,

Each year we ask each reader of The Wayne Messenger to make an annual donation. Thanks to the generosity of many of you, for the past three years we have been able to cover production costs for our Editor and Administrative Assistant salaries, printing and postage, exceeding $9,000 annually. Thanks to all of you who make this possible.

By the time you read this, we hope that we will have a new Editor in place, as Gina Lamarche has resigned due to her family's move to southern Maine. We are very grateful for the time and expertise that Gina gave to the Messenger over the last year.

We continue to need the support of all of you, both email and postal recipients, to ensure the sustainability of The Messenger, now and in the future. If you receive your copy in the mail, we have enclosed an envelope for your donation, which we hope you will return at your earliest convenience for 2019. For those receiving The Messenger via email, please mail your contribution to Wayne Community Church, PO Box 300, Wayne, ME 04284. If you have already sent us a donation this year, thank you so much for your support!

If you have any questions or comments about The Wayne Messenger, please feel free to contact the WCC Administrative Assistant at wayneumc@roadrunner.com.

Thank you,
WCC Messenger Committee

ALICE IN WONDERLAND ROOM PROJECT UPDATE

"Conversations with Alice," a program introduced by Grace Burleigh on September 22, was a fun discussion of how Alice came to Wayne, the widely studied interest in the mathematics of the book, the innovative procedures used to remove the 1932 gypsum board on which the Alice artwork had been done, and the best methods to preserve it.

Thanks to Kennebec Savings for donating $1000 to the project, bringing us close to 80% funded. We continue to fundraise; all donations make a difference and are welcome. Please note "Alice Project" on checks and make out to Cary Memorial Library, POB 127, Wayne ME 04284. Thank you!

HOWARD HILL HISTORICAL PARK DEDICATION

Join the Kennebec Land Trust and the city of Augusta to celebrate the dedication of Howard Hill Historical Park. Remarks begin at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, October 10 at the historic Gannett treehouse overlook. Plan ahead to allow plenty of time to hike into the overlook (visit our website for trailhead meeting locations and times, www.tkl.org or call 207-377-2848).

In March of 2017 the Kennebec Land Trust (KLT) transferred the 164-acre Howard Hill property to the city of Augusta. This transaction successfully completed an eight-year process undertaken by the KLT to conserve this property in perpetuity for the benefit of Maine's people and wildlife. Since 2018, the city's Conservation Commission, KLT staff, and volunteers have been constructing a new trail network in the Park.

At the time of the transfer, Augusta Mayor David Rollins noted: "This is an important day in the history of this City. Through the dedicated efforts of the folks at Kennebec Land Trust and the generosity of their donors, all Mainers, especially future generations, will reap the benefits of their work."

Judy Camuso, Commissioner, Maine Department of Inland Fisheries & Wildlife; Howard Lake, KLT Director; Bill Bridgeo, Augusta City Manager; Augusta Mayor Dave Rollins; and Andrew Silsby, President of Kennebec Savings Bank, will provide remarks at 4:00 p.m.

If you cannot attend but have questions about Howard Hill please call the KLT office at (207) 377-2848 or visit our website: www.tkl.org.

Hello eager AAH people,

Aging At Home would be happy to have a few more volunteers, especially to visit the sick or people who can't easily get around. You needn't sign up for every week. Once a month or once every 2 weeks, a visit for about an hour...that would be a great boon for several elders. These elders may easily be someone you already know. Thanks!

The next luncheon, free to anyone who cares to attend (donations accepted) will be the second Wednesday of October, the 9th, at 12 noon at the Cary Library, downstairs. Everyone is welcome.

The shredding event and the elder fair are postponed until the spring. If you care to help with these, let us know.

A woman in North Wayne is looking for someone to shovel or snow-blow her walks this winter. She already has someone to plow. She also has a snow blower that can be used by the handy person. Please, if you know of someone, let us know.

Are you interested in the topic of death? Would you care to attend a gathering to discuss the topic? To share with others your thoughts on what you know of death? On living your life in the present and choosing a positive path for it? "DeathTalk gatherings, which are appropriate for folks age 16 to 100+, occur around the world under various names. They are agenda-free conversations."

We are not talking a grief or support group, but an open discussion centered around death. Let us know if you are interested.

Winter is coming, and AAH expects requests for help from our elders. What do you need? What help would enable you to remain in your home this winter? Are you able to find people to help with your needs, or do you need suggestions of helping people?

From Spectrum Generations:

"Functional Fitness Workouts" & Personal Training Services

Want greater strength, energy, and stamina that you can carry into your day-to-day life? Or how about being able to perform your usual tasks, and then some, with grace and ease (without necessarily doing super-intense cardio or heavy lifting)? Fitness training can be fun, energizing and empowering!

Local longtime health/fitness professional, Trish Hanley-Goodwin, specializes in "movement that matters" – or functional fitness conditioning that prepares the body for real-life movement and activities that you might do at home, at work, or in recreational sports. While using various muscles in the upper and lower body at the same time, functional fitness exercises also emphasize core stability. Flexibility, mobility and balance get improved at the same time. You become more able-bodied, your self-esteem soars, and this improvement in your daily functional capacity helps you move more comfortably, burn more calories... promoting relaxation.

Trish has a boutique studio located at 787 Main St., Wayne, aka Tigress Training, LLC, and offers 1:1, duet and small group customizable personal training services.

This fall she will be offering a series of "Strengthen/Lengthen Sessions" – must join interest list and/or purchase "punch pass" to participate. For more info, contact Trish at patriciahanleygoodwin@gmail.com or 207.441.5641.
